

Centennial Society

The Centennial Society and Fund were established over a decade ago by the Economic Club of New York's Board of Trustees to ensure financial security and support high-quality programming for the Club's second century. The Fund is managed by the Board, with all expenditures requiring Board approval. With over 400 members, the Centennial Society's tax-deductible gifts enable the Club to provide diverse, timely programs featuring prominent thought leaders across national and global economic issues.
